THE GENESEE

FULL MANY FAIR AND FAMOUS STREAMS
BENEATH THE SUN THERE BE
BUT MORE TO US THAN ANY SEEMS
OUR OWN DEAR GENESEE.
WE LOVE HER BANKS AND STATELY FALLS,
FOR TO OUR MINDS THEY BRING
OUR DEAR OLD ALMA-MATER'S HALLS,
WHERE SWEETEST MEMORIES CLING.

AS FLOWS THE RIVER GATHERING FORCE
ALONG HER STEADFAST WAY,
MAY WE ALONG LIFE'S DEVIIOUS COURSE
GROW STRONGER DAY BY DAY, AND MAY OUR HEARTS WHERE'ER WE ROAM
FOREVER LOYAL BE
TO OUR BELOVED COLLEGE HOME
BESIDE THE GENESEE.

HE IS independent and proud, yet democratic and friendly. He is the envy of the rest of the world, and its hope. He is generous and tolerant and peace-loving—and withal the most powerful man in the world. He is the American workman.

His hands, accustomed to the feel of wrench and lever and gauge, may never have held a gun; his mind, trained to think in terms of tolerances as fine as 1/10,000 of an inch, may never have wrestled with a problem of military strategy; and yet he is the veteran of a thousand campaigns.

His campaigns began in the laboratories, and his prowess was proved in the test pits of American industry. His battles were waged on the factory floor and in the field. His victories have helped to make the citizens of the United States the most fortunate people in the world, and the U. S. the greatest nation on earth.

In the plants of the General Electric Company, working with General Electric scientists and engineers, this man, the American workman, has made giant generators to light whole cities, X-ray tubes to penetrate the mysteries of human flesh and metal castings, radio and television apparatus to project man's voice and image through space over the mysterious waves of the ether.

Today, in the gravest hour of world history, he is engaged in the greatest campaign of all. But there is serenity and confidence in his face, and the experience of a thousand campaigns behind him. He is sure of his own abilities, certain of his country's future. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Wadsworth Will Address Graduates; Dr. Slater Baccalaureate Speaker

The University's 1942 Commencement will be held Monday, May 11th, in the Eastman Theater, five weeks ahead of the normal mid-June date, and the Commencement ceremonies of alumni and alumnae have, of course, been shifted in accordance with the war-dictated change.

The speaker at this year's Commencement will be Representative James W. Wadsworth, of Geneseo, habitual choice of the Thirty-ninth Congressional District in the Congress. A former United States Senator, Congressman Wadsworth was chairman of the Senate's Military Affairs Committee during the World War, and has been one of the country's most consistent and persistent advocates of military preparedness. He was joint author of the long-debated Burke-Wadsworth Act, that in 1940 brought the nation's Selective Service program into being. Often at variance with his Republican colleagues on preparedness issues, Mr. Wadsworth has won and retained the regard of Washington leaders of all political faiths. Not an orator of the traditional sort, he is considered one of the ablest speakers in public life, and his selection as a Commencement speaker is warmly approved by the army of Rochester alumni who know him.

The Baccalaureate Address, to be given Sunday afternoon, May 10th, will be delivered by Professor John R. Slater in his final public appearance before his retirement on July 1st. The Baccalaureate exercises will be held in Strong Auditorium. Because of the limited seating facilities there, amplifiers will be set up in Rush Rhees Library, so that alumni and alumnae, and friends of the University, may listen to the address. A reception in the library will follow the ceremony, replacing the usual tea, which has been abandoned because of the uncertainties of Rochester's May-time climate.

Plans are to publish Dr. Slater's Baccalaureate Address in the June-July issue of THE ALUMNI-ALUMNAE REVIEW, which, as noted elsewhere in this issue, will be dedicated to the retiring chairman of the department of English.

The May Commencement is, of course, part of the University's speed-up program, involving college sessions throughout the entire year, and permitting a student to complete the normal college course of eight terms in two and two-thirds years instead of in four years.

There will be a Summer Term, a Fall Term, and a Winter Term in 1942-43. The Summer Term will begin May 15th and end August 7th. This term is divided into two parts: The "Intersession," which runs until June 25th, and the normal Summer Session, from June 29th to August 7th. Courses will be offered in both the Intersession and the Summer Session which provide complete units of work; a student at either period will be able to earn from six to eight hours of credit. Certain eight-hour courses in science must run through both halves of the Summer Term.

Students now in college may register for Summer Term courses, and entering freshmen—members of what, in normal years, would be the Class of 1946—are also eligible to attend both the Intersession and the Summer Session.

ON THE COVER

Farewell to the Genesee

June Baetzel, of Rochester, president of the Students' Association of the College for Women, and Bob Woods, of Evanston, Illinois, seniors both, scan the bronze verses of "The Genesee" a few days before their graduation. The granite boulder bearing the tablet is on the River Boulevard, opposite Strong Auditorium; beyond the trees in the background the curving Genesee flows "along her steadfast way."

Dormitories on both campuses will be open, possibly on a limited scale, during the summer, and meals will be served at Cutler Union and at Todd Union.

The new catalog of the College of Arts and Science emphasizes that students who wish to take the normal four-year course may do so. Tuition charges for the Summer Term are to be determined by the credit hours sought by the individual student, the rate being $13.30 per credit hour. A student earning eight credit hours at either session, therefore, would pay $106.40. By attending both sessions a student could earn from twelve to sixteen hours; 124 hours are required for the completion of the Arts Course, with up to 140 hours being required in engineering and science courses.

Students will still have the choice of pursuing the normal four-year course if they desire. All will feel the effects of the speed-up, however; The Fall Term for all students will begin September 8th instead of on September 21st, as originally scheduled and will end December 19th. The Winter Term will run from January 4th to April 24th.

Alumni, Alumnae Trim Programs As War Advances Reunion Dates

Alumnae commencement activities this year are emphasizing reunion luncheons that will be held on May 9th in the dormitories and Cutler Union, and the Commencement Dinner that is scheduled for May 11th. No Campus Day festivities have been arranged because of the simplified plans for the commencement week-end. The senior ceremony, traditional to Campus Day, will be replaced by a small luncheon honoring the women graduates on May 8th.

Reunion classes are reporting great success in their efforts of raising money for the Dean's Fund which is presented annually at the Commencement Dinner. This Fund, which is used at the discretion of Dean Clark, has enabled many students to remain in college that faced the necessity of leaving school because of unforeseen expenditures, for illnesses, travel, or clothing.

Representatives from the reunion classes who are managing the Dean's Fund and the luncheons are: Lucy Higbie Ross, '07; Marguerite Castle, '12; Josephine Booth Hale, '17; Sabra Twitchell Harris, '22; Marion Maggs Vicinus, '27; Elizabeth Mears, '32; and Eugenia Schied, '37. Many interesting reminiscences are being uncovered such as the note Dr. Havens wrote the Class of 1912 the morning after the Freshman-Sophomore breakfast, "I want to thank the sophomore girls for their evidence of housewifery skills that they left me, for the excellent luncheon with the characteristic dessert, and the much more habitable condition in which I found my room."

The Commencement Dinner speaker will be the recipient of an honorary degree from the University. Because of the large attendance expected, it will be possible to give dinner reservations only to those who have contributed to the Alumnae Fund. Reservations should be mailed very promptly to avoid disappointment.

Last year, alumnae will remember, the facilities of Cutler Union were far overtaxed as guests swarmed to hear Eve Curie. All Association members are asked to make their arrangements for tickets now, as another capacity crowd is expected.

A simplified Commencement week-end program, emphasizing fraternity and class reunions, the Alumni Dinner, and the traditional "Alumnite," is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 8th and 9th.

War and the calendar have led to the temporary discontinuance of two popular portions of the program. Because a large number of the younger alumni who normally attend are now in training camps, the Alumni Dance will be omitted this year. The meteorological uncertainties of Rochester's mid-May had brought about the decision to eliminate the refreshment tent, usually set up on the Fraternity Quadrangle.

Fraternity and group reunions are booked for Friday night, May 8th, as in past years, and the omission of the Alumni Dance, held on Friday evenings for the past several years, assures that those attending the reunions can prolong their sessions to a late hour.

Under consideration is a plan of asking the various lodges on the Fraternity Quadrangle to hold "open house" receptions late Saturday afternoon, with all alumni invited to wander about from house to house in a general informal and get-acquainted session.

Class reunions are, as usual, booked for Saturday noon. The outdoor program for Saturday afternoon is largely dependent upon the weather; if the sun smiles, there will be baseballs and bats available, and possibly a few undaunted umpires, should fraternities desire to renew ancient diamond rivalries.

A secret committee, its personnel known only to the president of the Associated Alumni who appointed it, is now at work weighing the qualifications of possible recipients of the Associated Alumni Medals. Two medals have been given annually since the awards were established in 1940; they were bestowed that year upon Samuel M. Havens, '99, and Arthur Sullivan Gale, dean emeritus of the College for Men, while the 1941 medals went to Herbert W. Bramley, '90, and Professor John R. Slater, head of the department of English, who retires from active service this year. The medals will be awarded, of course, at the annual Alumni Dinner, to be held in Todd Union

Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock, and the announcement of the alumnus and faculty man to be honored will be a feature of the after-dinner or "Alumnite" program.

Fund Plan to Have Joint Board; Early Results Promise Success

The new Fund plan of the alumni and alumnae, proposed and developed by the two Associations as described in the preceding issue of the REVIEW, has been formally launched. A leaflet describing the plan has been sent to all former students of all schools and colleges of the University, and in the hands of those former students the future of the Fund, and its success or failure, now rest.

While the Alumnae Association and the Associated Alumni retain their separate organizations and identities and each assumes responsibility for the canvassing of present and prospective members, the Fund will be jointly administered by a Board of Directors that now includes: Kenneth B. Keating, '19, president of the alumni; Ruth Tuttle Hoffmeister, '25, alumnae president; Herbert W. Bramley, '90, honorary chairman of the Alumni Fund; Matthew D. Lawless, '09, treasurer of the Associated Alumni and chairman of the Alumni Fund; Bessie Pettis West, '07, chairman of the Alumnae Fund; Josephine Booth Hale, '17, chairman of the Special Committee of the Alumnae Fund; Alumni Secretary Charles R. Dalton, '20; Helen Ancona, '38, alumnae secretary; Alan Valentine, president of the University, and by decree of the alumni a member of the Class of 1939; and University Treasurer Raymond L. Thompson, '17.

The Fund plan makes direct contributions to the University, instead of membership dues to the alumni or alumnae organizations, the basis of membership in the Associations. The costs of operating the Alumni Office in Todd Union and the Alumnae Office in Cutler Union are to be taken over entirely by the University.

Officers of both Associations, and of the University, point out that the new relationship preserves the full independence of the alumni and alumnae organizations, in fact emphasizes and expands this independence. The Associations have assumed, voluntarily and without University prompting, a new and important responsibility—a responsibility that graduates of other universities and colleges have already generously and enthusiastically accepted.

In place of membership dues, each alumnus and alumna will be asked, once each year, to make a contribution to the University to be used for educational purposes. Every dollar contributed goes directly for such services as scholarships or loan funds; or, if the giver so elects, will be added to the general funds of the University, to be used where it is needed. Of course, if a member desires to continue support of the Association only, he or she may do so.

Each gift is credited to the school or college which the giver attended. The Fund, therefore, for the first time, presents a project in which graduates of the College of Arts and Science, the Eastman School of Music, and the School of Medicine and Dentistry can work together with common interest and for a common cause.

For the most part the Associations will conduct their Fund campaigns by mail, as other colleges have done, and will not organize their forces for a person-to-person solicitation. As already noted, the Alumnae Association has organized a Special Committee under the leadership of Josephine Booth Hale, '17. The alumni also has a Special Committee, that has been organized by Bert Bramley.

Solicitation for the Michael Casey Alumni Scholarship Fund will be included in the annual alumni canvass. The Casey Scholarships will continue to be administered by a special committee, under whose direction two highly successful campaigns for funds have already been held. One Casey Scholar, Irving J. Baybutt, is now completing his freshman year, and the recipient of the award for next year's entering class will shortly be chosen.

President Valentine, in a letter accompanying the folder sent out to the members of the Associations, says that the organization of the Fund is the most significant step that alumnae and alumni have taken in many years, and is "the logical outcome of their progressive development during the past decade." Association officers go a step farther, terming the plan the greatest project the graduate organizations have ever undertaken. They cite these reasons:

It is a continuing plan adopted by the Alumni and Alumnae Councils "as a permanent blueprint for future growth of the University with alumni and alumnae help."

It offers to all former students opportunity to aid the University regularly, in their own way and in their own time, helping to pass on to new generations of students opportunities once provided for the present givers at less than actual cost.

Never before has the University faced financial problems as difficult as those arising out of the present emergency, and it urgently needs, as never before, the united support of its former students.

Incidentally, since contributions are made payable to the University and are to be expended for educational purposes, they constitute proper deductions for income tax purposes.

The adoption of the Fund plan places Rochester in step with more than a hundred other colleges and universities which already have adopted equivalent methods of alumni-alumnae aid. It is significant that all of the heavily-endowed institutions, such as Yale, Harvard, and Columbia, have successful Alumni Funds. Both men's and women's colleges have found that the Fund plan attracts wider graduate interest and participation than the membership plan.

Still Young, Dr. Havens Claims; Sends New Data on Lewis Morgan

Raymond Dexter Havens, '02, chairman of the department of English at Johns Hopkins University, has set a new record for aged-in-the-wood correspondence by beginning a letter to THE ALUMNI-ALUMNAE REVIEW on March 18th, 1941, and completing it on March 18th, 1942.

The still-youthful professor finds it difficult—in fact impossible “that you men whom I remember as undergraduates have sons and daughters in college. I still play badminton with my students and think of myself as a mere stripling just out of short trousers, although the photographer presents a somewhat different picture.

“I had hardly finished my book, ‘The Mind of a Poet,’ when, against my wishes, I was made chairman of the department once again. I shall be teaching undergraduates in the heat of Baltimore all summer; but I hope to get away for my fortieth reunion, May 8th to 10th.”

Professor Havens forwarded a clipping from The London Times book review section commenting on a new edition of “The Origin of the Family, Private Property, and the State,” by Frederick Engels, famed German socialist, who, along with Karl Marx, is regarded as the major apostle of communism. Both Engels and Marx, The London Times says, had a high regard for Lewis H. Morgan, noted Rochester anthropologist, a regard shared by the USSR of today. Engels and Marx based much of their doctrine upon Morgan's studies of the kinship groups of the Indian tribes. A few years ago Moscow asked the University of Rochester, Morgan's residuary legatee, to make copies, on 16 mm. film, of all of Morgan's unpublished manuscripts now deposited in the Rush Rhees Library.

Morgan received an honorary Master of Arts degree from the University in 1851, at Rochester's first Commencement. In the University catalog, it is noted that thirty years later he bequeathed a considerable sum to the University, to provide “Female Education of high grade in the University of Rochester.” Thus Lewis H. Morgan, a conservative in business and politics, great benefactor of the College for Women, is held in high esteem not only on the Prince Street Campus, but in Moscow and Kuibishev.

Fleshless Clara, Class Treasure, Inspired 1890 Oratory and Songs

The appeal for information about Clara, skeleton sweetheart of successive senior classes during the Gay Nineties, has been answered. Dr. Ira S. Wile, '98, and James Bruff Forbes, '99, saw the brief item about Clara's rib in the preceding issue of the REVIEW, and with typical promptness and characteristic scholarship supplied the vital data.

All that remains of Clara now is a thumb-sized fragment of a rib, tucked in the “Memorabilia” file of the Class of 1897 in Rush Rhees Library. In the closing decade of the Nineteenth Century, however, Clara was complete, from daintily curving skull to tripping toes, and she not only demanded and received the affection of the seniors in successive classes, but inspired a profusion of poetry and song. She was the topic also of the annual Bone Orations. It was the responsibility of the Bone Orator of the Junior Class to welcome Clara at the annual Class Day exercises, to guard her during his senior year, and then to bid her a formal farewell and entrust her to his successor.

“It was my privilege to serve as Junior Bone Orator and to be responsible for her care through the senior year,” Dr. Wile writes. “During that time she was not at the Deke house, as indicated in the REVIEW, but under the protection of my multilocked home. In 1898, as Senior Bone Orator, I had her properly paraded and then elevated in gruesome beauty at the Lyceum Theater, where such celebrations were usually held. After senior and junior oratorical flourishes she was carried to the campus where the elm tree of the Class of 1898 was to be planted. The actual transfer of Clara to the Junior Class did not occur until the close of the ceremonials of Class Day. Just as the meeting was about to end, after the inspiring Pipe Oration and song, there was a rush on the part of some Greek Letter groups to take possession of Clara. This outrageous assault put to naught the Laws of the Medes and Persians, the sacred rules and regulations, the moss-covered mores and customs of the ages.

"It was up to me to protect Clara as best I could, but alas, her frailty handicapped my efforts and in the struggle certain portions of her anatomy became detached. I was successful, however, in holding on to the lower section, south of the midriff, and, in the vernacular, 'got away with the goods' to that extent. Thus delimited she lived with me and was taken to the University of Pennsylvania when I took up the course in medicine there in 1899. For the duration she became a part of the room ornamentation, in mute appeal for more head work. She was too badly damaged even to be an osteological specimen, but she certainly maintained the dignity becoming to her osseous attachment to the Class of 1898.

"My roommate fell heir to the remains when I was graduated in 1902. He died a year or two later, and what happened to the dangling lower section of Clara is shrouded in mystery. What became of the various small and large parts that were removed during the classical struggle on the campus I know not; but this I know, and know full well, Clara never was herself again.

"I am sorry that I cannot offer better Clara-fication concerning her ultimate passing, but at least I can record how, when and why she ceased to pass from class to class. Of her, generations of Rochester men could say that she was a lass with class.

"This report is sent at the instigation of my good friend, Rev. Robert Pattison, '99. He seemed to think that I might know something about Clara, but I knew her none too well, though she was long a skeleton in my closet."

James Bruff Forbes reports that the Class of 1899 passed along the "northern" portions of Clara to the then Junior Class. The 1900 Class Day marked Clara's last appearance; her beauty and her stamina did not survive the boisterous kidnapping efforts that troubled her final years.

Mr. Forbes sends along the text of the Bone Song written by Dr. Pattison for the Class of '99:

*As classmates true we're here to woo,
Thy charm is cast upon us;
Fair Clara we thy love would be
As Venus and Adonis.
O dearest maid, no hungry spade
Thy fate shall e'er decide now;
But hearts instead are trumps, so wed
Us, and become our bride now!*

*We'll guard thee well, we'll feed thee swell
On lilac flowers and cigarettes—
While wrapped in smiles of latest styles,
All bought for thee in spite of debts!
Thy wondrous hair seems extra rare,
Thy speech seems extra dry,
But what care we—our love for thee
Pass such small matters by!*

*We won't refuse the wheel you choose,
No matter who the maker;
We'll bloomers buy and you shall try
The highest-grade Bone Shaker!
Our time is spent—wilt thou consent?
'Tis done! Our joy would swell,
So in thy praise we gladly raise
The finest-yet class yell!*

LUX, DUX, LEX, REX:
U. of R. XCIX!

The "wheel" mentioned in the third verse refers to the antiquated bicycle of the high-wheel type which for many years Librarian Herman K. Phinney, '77, rode to and from the campus. Says Mr. Forbes:

"One morning at chapel our Class of '99 presented him with a new bicycle, 1899 model. During the formal presentation the old safety bicycle was hoisted to the top of the flagpole in front of Anderson Hall. It remained there until Billy Barry of our class took it down and mounted it. Though hotly pursued he managed to get it into the Psi U house where it remained for a long time, only being brought out for state occasions."

No clue is given as to how Clara, lacking all her bones below the midriff, could have ridden Mr. Phinney's ancient bicycle.

Albert F. Dillman was the Bone Orator for the Class of 1899. In 1900 Clara's farewell was delivered by Robert Slocum, and Frederick W. Stewart responded for the juniors. Clara was fading, indeed crumbling, and the fickle seniors, no longer as devoted to Clara as their predecessors, sang this cruel chorus as they surrendered her to the men of '01:

*Yet though our bosoms swell
With thoughts we cannot tell
We must in sooth
Confess the truth
We gladly say farewell!*

Alumnae Volunteers Do Good Work In Peddling War Stamps and Bonds

Rochester alumnae are selling war stamps for the duration. Behind that simple statement is the time and effort of a corps of twenty-one faithful workers who have made this undertaking the success it has become. From February 16th to March 20th, when weather was definitely of the Rochester variety and income taxes were being paid, the alumnae group sold a total of $2,171 in stamps, or an average weekly sale of $434.

The booth is located in McCurdy's Store between the glove and sock counter where traffic is constant and gossip voluminous. It is surprising how much personal history is volunteered by a customer purchasing 25c worth of stamps. Two shifts a day work the booth—the first from 11:00 to 2:00 and the second from 2:00 to 5:00. The booth is of infinitesimal proportions but is definitely flattering for every one of the volunteers has been able to squeeze into it.

The selling of war stamps has been worked out under the supervision of the Treasury Department, each area having a paid worker and a volunteer with a $1.00 a year status. There are three plans by which these stamps are sold. First is that of the six women's organizations who have booths in downtown stores—the Alumnae Association, the A.A.U.W., the Council of Jewish Women, Senior Hadassah, Senior Girl Scouts, and the Federation of Women's Clubs. The second plan is for various organizations having buildings to sell stamps at their headquarters, such as the Y.W.C.A. The third plan is to sell stamps at meetings of groups around the city. In all these organizations there are about 200 volunteers working and the number is growing constantly as other booths are opened.

The volunteers who have been assisting Elizabeth Wolters Kennedy, '26 and Norma Storey Spinning, '18, Co-Chairmen, are: Mary Leader Lewis, '28, Margaret Burrows Burdick, '28, Helen Geraghty McNally, '30, Emily Oemisch Dalton, '20, Elizabeth Mullan Kiel, '18, Betty Haring Champion, '42, Judith Ogden Taylor, '13, Otilie Graeper Rupert, '19, Eleanor Garbutt Gilbert, '19, Alice Booth Holmes, '13, Mildred Bowen Bodette, '17, Marion Taylor Bohacket, '10, Marion Houlihan Brown, '27, Marguerite Castle, '12, Margaret Bailey Benford, '36, Dorothy Dunn Esley, '26, Ethel Kates, '06, Marion Craig Steinman, '25, and Gladys Von Deben Hammond, '23.

Alumnae who are interested in volunteering for this interesting and necessary service may call the Alumnae Office for further information.

Hopeman Bells Chime from Cutler As Alumnae Honor John R. Slater

Three hundred and fifty alumnae and guests were completely baffled when they arrived at the Prince Street campus for dinner on April 1st, and heard chimes pealing from the tower of Cutler Union. The occasion was the alumnae dinner in honor of Dr. John R. Slater, on the eve of his retirement from the University after 37 years of service. When Dr. Slater realized what he was hearing he commented that he must be "crazy."

The chimes, it developed, were recordings made of the Hopeman Memorial Chimes in the tower of Rush Rhees Library, and reamplified from the tower of Cutler Union. Dr. Slater himself had played them for the recordings, unaware of the purpose to which they would be put. Susan H. Glover, '35, toastmistress of the dinner, and originator of the scheme, explained how the plan was secretly accomplished. Avery Lockner of the Eastman School of Music and Harry E. Gordon of the Rochester Telephone Corporation had placed a microphone in the center of the River Campus quadrangle. As Dr. Slater played, the sound was carried by wires to the basement of the Rush Rhees Library, through the main telephone cables of the Monroe and Stone exchanges to Station WHAM, from there to the Eastman School of Music and to the Recording Room. Many days of jockeying with the weather, and competing with the drone of airplane motors and the chugging of a train finally resulted in a successful recording.

The dinner itself was woven in a pattern of sincerity and simplicity, so typical of Dr. Slater's own personality. In a gay setting of college blue and yellow, the speaker's table was placed below the painting of Dr. Rush Rhees in the upper auditorium. Margaret Webster, '31, her keen seeing eye dog, Venus, at her side, played an overture of Dr.

Slater's favorite selections as the alumnae, guests and friends entered. During the dinner a large white cake bearing thirty-seven candles was presented to Dr. Slater. Helen Neilly Morgan, '35 had arranged two of Dr. Slater's favorite songs, and eight members of the Glee Club sang them during the course of the dinner, ending with a beautiful arrangement of his own "Commencement Hymn."

Guests of honor who paid affectionate tribute to Dr. Slater as a "scholar and a teacher of the truth" were Edward G. Miner, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and life-long friend; Dr. Richard L. Greene, '26, his newly appointed successor, and Dorothy Dobbin Loveland, '18, personal friend and former member of his department. At the close of the dinner Dr. Slater was presented a complete set of the recordings of the chimes, "with love and grateful thanks for the many hours of pleasure which you and the bells have given to us."

Dr. Slater acknowledged the gift with a charming and delightful comment that he knew and loved all of his former students, though to remember their names would be a task impossible for any one man to master. Dr. and Mrs. Slater greeted their friends in a brief reception following the dinner while the chimes rang out from the tower.

Armed Forces Call Professors; Washington Summons Economists

War is continuing to thin the ranks of University of Rochester faculty men, with Robert Vogel, instructor in dramatics, and Dr. Sterling Callisen, fine arts instructor, included in the most recent group to join the colors. Mr. Vogel has joined the Navy and is aiming at an ensign's commission, and Dr. Callisen has entered the Army Intelligence service in a civilian capacity.

The Office of Production Administration, in Washington, has summoned three members of the department of economics, Associate Professor William Dunkman, Assistant Professor Frank Smith, and Dr. James E. Eckert, instructor. Jack Corris, director of Todd Union, is in the Morale Division of the Naval Reserve.

Navy Intelligence has accepted Dr. George B. Raser, assistant professor of Romance languages, and Dr. William Kappauf, psychology instructor, is doing research in his special field for the Army. Dr. Jack W. Dunlap, associate professor of education and director of the Bureau of Educational Statistics, is in charge of a research project involving the testing and training of pilots.

Dr. Edmund S. Nassett, associate professor of vital economics, is a major in the sanitary corps of the Medical Division of the Army.

Since 1940 Physics Professor Lee A. DuBridg, dean of the faculty of the College of Arts and Science, has been at Cambridge in charge of a special secret research project for the nation's armed forces. Frederick L. Hovde, assistant to President Alan Valentine, has been in London for over a year with a scientific mission, aimed to make British war science available to military and research men in the United States.

Many of the younger faculty men are expecting an early call to service, and it is likely that some of their elders, specialists in various fields, will also be summoned.

Excuse for Tardiness

There are two reasons why this issue of the REVIEW is behind schedule, and we hope that our readers will accept them.

First: The Alumni and Alumnae Offices have been tied up for weeks in their preparations for the new Fund Campaign.

Second: It was necessary to change printers just as the flow of copy, dammed up by the Fund preparations, was beginning again. The printing firm that has been doing the press work on the REVIEW has gone out of business.

We are back to normal now, and unless the war interferes, the usual schedule will be followed during the remainder of the year.

Professor Slater Retires

Professor John R. Slater, chairman of the department of English, will retire July 1st, after thirty-seven years of service on the teaching staff of the University.

His successor will be Richard L. Greene, '26, one of Dr. Slater's most brilliant disciples, and a member of the Rochester faculty since 1929.

It would be a pleasant and satisfying task, here and now, to pay tribute to Professor Slater. Such a tribute would be an attempted repayment of many favors, generously and graciously given; for Dr. Slater has been more than kind to THE ALUMNI-ALUMNAE REVIEW, and to its editors.

His withdrawal from active teaching, however, calls for something more than a brief editorial, however warmly it is phrased; more than a news story, however detailed. The editors of THE REVIEW, and its readers, would not consider such meager treatment adequate.

It has been decided, therefore, to devote an entire issue to Professor Slater. The usual June-July number of THE ALUMNI-ALUMNAE REVIEW will be dedicated to him. Probably some of his outstanding writings will be reprinted therein. Detailed plans for the issue are not complete, however, and the editors would welcome suggestions from former students of Dr. Slater, from alumnae and alumni generally, and from his faculty associates.

This notice is being given well in advance so that anticipated calls for extra copies may be taken care of. Some of our earlier issues, largely devoted to faculty personages, are now rarities because of demands from readers. Advance requests for additional copies of the magazine will enable us to prevent this from happening again.

Give Enough!

The new Fund plan, with dues to the alumni and alumnae associations being replaced by direct gifts to the University, is a logical step, the normal development of a trend that has been evident for many years. Sons and daughters of Rochester have long been aware that the University was deserving of something more than verbal loyalty and affectionate remembrance. Many translated that awareness into generous action.

The Fund is designed to unify and multiply the gifts that individuals and groups have made, to give significance and momentum to alumni-alumnae generosity. Graduates of other colleges have found that the plan strengthens graduate organizations and programs, makes graduate interest keener. There is every reason to expect similar results at Rochester.

How many of us will give, and how much shall we give? Only individual alumni and alumnae can answer that question, but the records of other colleges offer a direct and interesting challenge. Should we not endeavor to emulate Dartmouth, that boasts 57 per cent of its former students contributing? Or Mount Holyoke, or Wellesley, each with 44 per cent? We might try to match Hamilton's average gift of $16.73, or Wesleyan's $17.27 (we have beaten both of them in football), or Bryn Mawr's $14.13.

Certainly the total amount of gifts should top overwhelmingly the total cost of operating the Associated Alumni and the Alumnae Association, a cost which the University has now assumed. There should be a most generous surplus, to be added to the University's scholarship funds and general funds. When that goal is attained, the Associations will truly be partners in the educational advance of the University of Rochester.

"THE BEST COACHING STAFF IN THE COUNTRY"

President Alan Valentine says, and alumni will agree, that the University has the best group of coaches in the United States. Here they are. In the front row from left to right are Lou Alexander, basketball tutor, who in 1941-42 guided his quintet to an undefeated season; Roman Speegle, coach of swimming, who has twice chalked up a perfect year's list of victories; and Bill Hubbard, coach of the undefeated freshman basketball team, and assistant coach of football.

Modestly hiding all but his skull in the rear row, left, is Assistant Basketball Coach Spike Garnish; then Paul Bitgood, track coach and freshman football coach, whose charges won all games and held all opponents scoreless in 1941; Soccer Coach Walter Campbell; and Dudley S. DeGroot, football coach, who functioned in the double role of Merlin and Moses in recording six grid victories out of seven 1941 games.

Basketball Five Goes Undefeated; Swimmers Win Eight, Drop Four

For the first time in history a Rochester basketball team has attained a perfect season, the 1941-42 Varsity, coached by Lou Alexander, defeating sixteen foes in a row.

Heavily underlining the unbroken string of victories is the fact, reported by the United Press, that Rochester is the only college team in the country to emerge undefeated from its court crusades. Princeton, Yale, Michigan State, Vermont, and Colgate, and a long list of Rochester's traditional rivals among the smaller colleges fell before the triumphant march of the Yellowjackets cagers.

Probably some of the single players of Rochester's basketball past outshone the men of the contemporary Varsity in individual brilliance; but no team surpassed it in team play. Lou Alexander, at the "Victory Dinner" at which alumni honored the members and coaches of basketball and swimming squads, gave credit to the fine leadership of Captain Glenn Quaint; the balance and morale of the team; the seasoned, finished work of his sophomore starters, Jim Beall and Dick Baroody; and the able coaching work of Assistant Coach Lyle (Spike) Garnish, who, he declared, is capable of coaching any college team in the country.

It was a season of narrow escapes and hairbreadth decisions. Most of the teams that faced Rochester on the Palestra floor managed to gain the lead one or more times during their struggles with the Varsity, generally falling victims to spectacular spurts as the Yellowjackets, under the pressure of threatened defeat, turned on the power.

Dick (Biggie) Baldwin, abbreviated forward whose set-shot accuracy, revealed in mid-season, was of vital help to the Varsity in the last hard miles of the home stretch, has been elected captain for next season—a season that under normal circumstances would be full of promise, but which already is beginning to be obscured by the clouds of war. With Jim Beall, Dick Baroody, and Johnny Baynes, all sophomores, and Baldwin and Tuck Faulkner, juniors, there would be a TNT-packed outfit to worry next season's opponents, especially with the capable re-inforcements that Bill Hubbard's undefeated freshman team could supply.

ROCHESTER 37, BUFFALO 27

Playing on their own court, the Bulls offered little opposition, the Varsity speeding to a 17 to 9 lead at half time. Bob Erickson headed the scorers with 12 points. The Rochester players dropped in 15 baskets in 32 tries, Buffalo notching but 10 field goals in 42 attempts.

ROCHESTER 58, HOBART 40

Hobart, with a team well above the Geneva average, smothered early Rochester scoring tries, at one time holding a 9 to 5 advantage. When the Varsity started rolling, however, it breezed by the Hobarts with repeated scoring spurts and finished the half with a comfortable margin of 30 to 18. Long Pete Kelly and Jim Beall led the basket blizzard with 13 and 11 points, and Dick Baroody delighted the Rochester fans with his usual brilliant floor game. Hobart's Chuck Keene, at the center spot, was the visitors' standout. Lou Alexander used substitutes freely, eleven players seeing action.

ROCHESTER 40, CLARKSON 34

An aggressive team from Potsdam that never quit trying gave Varsity fans some anxious moments, at one interval in the second half notching 11 points while the locals counted a meager 3. Long-armed Dick Baroody and Jim Beall came through with timely baskets, however, to check the Engineers. Clarkson players were particularly effective at long range. Bill Hubbard's Frosh team, that had beaten a good Hobart first-year squad on the previous Saturday, smashed the Seniors in the preliminary, 65 to 30, with Mitch Williams, Frosh captain, netting 9 field goals.

ROCHESTER 47, BUFFALO 35

Buffalo came out punching in the return contest at Rochester, and ran up 7 points before the bewildered Varsity was able to connect. The vengeful Bulls kept the Rochesters off balance for the entire half, and the second period was on its way before Rochester was able to push into the lead. The advantage shifted repeatedly until the final ten minutes, when Rochester notched 9 counters to finish well ahead of the Bison outfit. Quaint suffered a foot injury which hampered his play for the balance of the season.

ROCHESTER 57, VERMONT 45

Unawed by Rochester's tight zone defense, Vermont pegged in enough long-range shots to make it a close contest throughout. Captain Glenn Quaint led in the scoring with 15 points, but little Dick (Biggie) Baldwin, substitute forward, was the hero of the hour as he pitched in six set-shot bulls-eyes, five of them in the second half, to provide the Varsity's exact margin of victory. Vermont's Bob Doherty kept his team in the running with long-distance baskets until personal fouls eliminated him, along with Dick Kipp, center, another pegging specialist. The Catamounts moved out to a six-point lead in the first half, but the Varsity staged a blazing ninety-second seven-point rally to gain and hold the edge at intermission, 25 to 24.

ROCHESTER 41, COLGATE 33

Colgate trimmed the Varsity, 55 to 38, last year, but it

VICTORS ALL!

lacked a long-range set shot expert in 1942, and even the handicap of Captain Glenn Quaint's injury, suffered in the Buffalo game, wasn't enough to halt the Varsity's victory march. The big Raiders, as usual, made it a bitter fight, and managed to move out ahead in both halves. Again as usual, the Rochesters came through with a high-caliber barrage when it was needed, subduing the Raiders with an 8-point blast shortly after intermission. Jim Beall had one of his best nights, scoring 15 points for the winners.

ROCHESTER 50, HOBART 32

Hobart, which had forced Colgate's Red Raiders into two overtime periods four days before, repeatedly built up commanding leads in the first half of the contest on the Geneva floor, at one time holding a 6-point margin over the Varsity. The Yellowjackets turned on the power at this point, scoring 12 points to Hobart's 2 in the final seven minutes of the half to reach a 25 to 21 edge at intermission. This counterattack broke the back of the Hobart offensive and the second half saw Rochester running away with another 25 points while their foes were held to a lean 11 counters. Jim Beall with 14 points, all garnered from the field, Dick Baldwin with 13, and Pete Kelly's 11 points, contributed heavily to the Rochester victory; Bill Mack of Hobart led his team with 10 points.

ROCHESTER 37, HAMILTON 28

Hamilton provided the last long mile of the Varsity's march to an undefeated season, and the invaders, taking full advantage of their underdog role, threatened again and again to blunt the stings of the over-anxious Yellowjackets. They assaulted the morale of the home forces by languidly tossing the ball back and forth at mid-floor, well beyond the long arms of the Varsity's zone-defense forces. They guarded their own goal ably, and kept Rochester's artillery in check until the final minutes of the game. At the end of the first ten minutes each team had scored but 3 points, Rochester netting only one goal in eight tries. The Varsity held a slender 12 to 11 edge at the half. Hamilton moved into the lead midway in the second half, but its hopes of spoiling a perfect season for Rochester faded as Jim Beall, held scoreless for the first three quarters, at last found the range and rolled three field goals and two free throws through the meshes.

Dick (Biggie) Baldwin, pint-sized junior forward, contributed five set shots. Glenn Quaint, Rochester captain, was forced from the game with an injured eye, but returned to assist in Hamilton's downfall. Missing from the lineup was Bob Erickson, laid low by influenza the day before the game.

Swimmers Win Eight of Twelve

Roman Speegle's swimming team, with the toughest schedule a Rochester tank unit has ever faced, won eight meets, dropping decisions to Syracuse, Cornell, Rensselaer, and Brooklyn. It was a season of hair-breadth decisions and photo finishes, with Rochester contestants in repeated events swimming home minute fractions of seconds behind their foes.

Lowell Burke, a junior, was elected captain of the swimmers following the final meet. A springboard specialist, Burke has been dividing diving honors with Paul Rohver, and turned in one of the finest performances of the season in the concluding meet with Union, with the high score of 100.4.

SYRACUSE 44, ROCHESTER 31

The Rochester medley relay team, John Cranch, Bill Gavett, and Herb Lockman, had to set a new record to beat the Syracuse trio. Bill Gavett, in the breaststroke, accounted for Rochester's only other first place.

CORNELL 50, ROCHESTER 25

Again the medley relay team, with Gordie Morrison taking Lockman's place in the anchor spot, came in ahead. Only individual first place winner was John Cranch in the backstroke.

ROCHESTER 56, FENN 19

Fenn College, of Cleveland, offered little opposition, the medley relay team leading off to a victory, with John Cranch, Bill Gavett, and Gordie Morrison showing the way. Meyer won the 220; Lowell Burke and Paul Rohver were one-two in the diving; Roger Swett captured the backstroke, and Bill Gavett the breaststroke. Roy Philip annexed the 440, and the 400-yard relay honors went to Herb Lockman, Howie Bacon, Gordon Morrison, and Warren Hennrich.

ROCHESTER 40, OBERLIN 35

Oberlin, whose football and basketball teams had previously fallen victim to the Varsity foes, managed to win five events to Rochester's four, but Roman Speegle's well-balanced team snatched sufficient second and third places to make a clean sweep of the season's battles between the two institutions. John Richards of Oberlin won two firsts, in the 100 and 220, and was second to Rochester's Roy Phillip in the 440. Bill Gavett and Doug Jones were one-two in the 200-yard breast stroke, and Roger Swett and Johnny Cranch accounted for 8 points in the back stroke. Again Rochester's chances of victory hinged on the 400-yard relay, with Herb Lockman, Howie Bacon, Warren Hennrich, and Gordie Morrison outswimming the Oberlin opposition.

RENSSAELER 43, ROCHESTER 32

Rochester swimmers dropped a number of heartbreakingly close decisions to the Engineers, Herb Lockman coming through with the only sole victory while the 400-yard relay fell to Lockman, Howie Bacon, Meyer, and Gordie Morrison.

BROOKLYN 39, ROCHESTER 36

Brooklyn, with a long record of victories to maintain, swept all but three events. The Rohver-Burke combination bested the Brooklyn divers; Don Campbell was first in the 440, and the 400-yard relay fell to Herb Lockman, Howie Bacon, Bill Yates, and Warren Hennrich.

ROCHESTER 44, FORDHAM 31

Again it was Rohver and Burke in the diving. Roger Swett, Bill Gavett, and Herb Lockman captured the medley relay. Warren Hennrich, in the 50, and Bill Gavett in the breaststroke, accounted for Rochester's other firsts.

ROCHESTER 57, UNION 18

Union was unable to win a single race. Roger Swett, Jones, and Beal took the medley relay in easy fashion. Jerry Meyer accounted for the 220; Bill Yates the 50; Howie Bacon the 100; Roger Swett the backstroke; Bill Gavett the breaststroke; Lowell Burke the diving; Don Campbell the 440. Howie Bacon, Gordie Morrison, Herb Lockman, and Warren Hennrich made up the winning 400-yard relay team.

Committee Seeks Fund for Prize To Honor Government Professor

A project to raise $2,000 to honor the memory of James G. McGill, late professor of government at the University of Rochester and former president of the Rochester Board of Education, was launched in April.

Income from the fund will be used to establish the "James G. McGill Prize," to be awarded annually to the senior student at the University, in the College for Men or the College for Women, "who has shown the greatest interest and achievement in government."

Professor McGill, a graduate of Oberlin College, and the first chairman of the University's department of government, came to Rochester in 1925. He died in San Mateo, California, on March 4th.

Former students in his classes, and former associates on the staffs of the city schools, will be invited to join in contributing to the fund. Miss Isabel K. Wallace, '16, vocational counselor of the College for Women, is chairman of the committee in charge, and Warren W. Allen, '24, is treasurer.

Meanderings

President Alan Valentine and Football Coach Dudley S. DeGroot furnished the theme for James S. Kearns, sports columnist for THE CHICAGO SUN, on December 21st, the second anniversary of the University of Chicago's historic decision to shelve intercollegiate football. Kearns calls them "the two key men who have kept Rochester happy over its decision not to follow Chicago's lead two years ago this day." He writes:

"It is not exactly a state secret that Rochester thought of the possibility of dropping football along at the fag end of 1939, when it had nothing less dreary to contemplate about football than a record of losing every game in the '39 campaign. After Chicago had scuttled its varsity, President Valentine was coaxed earnestly to do likewise. Some of the heaviest coaxing came from people vitally interested in gaining support for Chicago's move.

"Rochester's considered decision was to continue playing intercollegiate football to the honest best of its natural ability.

"In order to develop that ability and to foster success for the carry-on program, President Valentine reached back into his own sporting background to get the help of a long-time friend.

"Valentine had played football at Swarthmore. He had been, so far as we know, the first American to win his blue playing rugby at Oxford, where he had gone on a Rhodes Scholarship. In 1924 he had joined the United States Olympic rugby team for a tour of Great Britain.

On that team was Dudley DeGroot, Ph.D., one-time mascot of A. A. Stagg's University of Chicago football teams, one-time New Trier High School athlete, one-time Stanford football captain.

"In 1939 DeGroot was coaching San Jose State College in California where, for eight years, he had annually seen his team whip the College of the Pacific, coached for most of that time by A. A. Stagg, for whom the young man at San Jose was, as noted, once a mascot.

"So in the 1939-40 winter, President Valentine of Rochester be-thought himself of his old rugby tour mate and induced De Groot to come to Rochester as football coach. This was, and is, the setup under which he labors:

"Nothing is done for athletes in the way of special financial or academic help. Scholarships are plentifully available at Rochester, but are given solely for scholastic attainments. Rochester appropriates a complete budget for the conduct of its intercollegiate sport program out of general university funds. Gate receipts are thus non-important in the football scheme, though they are accepted in whatever amounts develop.

"Available as possible football material is the small (approximately 650) male student body of the undergraduate body. Last fall one out of every nine upper classmen was on the varsity grid squad. One out of every three freshmen was on the yearling squad, that numbered more than 60."

"Wash with boric acid, dry, and bind with sterile gauze." Sitting with crossed legs and furrowed brows, the Alumnae Basketball team thus nursed its tender feet, blistered from a 20 to 16 trouncing by the Bragdon House undergraduates. Organized by Captain Emma Mueller, '41, the team boasts a loyal and superior membership. Anne and Ruth Newell, '38, Miriam Fuhrman, '41, Marjorie Somers, '41, Cathrine Zaenglein, '41, and Helen Ancona, '38. Blitz tactics are frequently resorted to when the score margin widens. Hazel Wilbraham, '27, is quickly sent into the squad to tie up the weaknesses. The second game was played with the freshman team. Until the last four minutes of the game the score was tied at 16-all. Breathing became more difficult for the alumnae and in the final minutes the freshmen worked up a score of 20 to 16.

The protection and welfare of students was foremost in the mind of Josephine Booth Hale, '17, when she drove along University Avenue near Prince Street one dark night, and saw a man prowling at the front door of Harriet Seelye House. She saw him go to the side door, then disappear into the night. Losing no time, Jo roused the dormitory and warned the girls of the suspected prowler. They were about to summon the police when they heard scratching sounds at the back door. Mustering courage, brooms, and mop handles, the dormitory crew flung open the back door—to find the astonished night watchman punching his time clock.

Heavy March snows put the Hoffmeister automobile out of action for several days, and the acting dean of men thumbed his way to the River Campus for three mornings. Ruth Hoffmeister likewise took the storm in her stride, and never missed a committee meeting, using taxis when the thumb technique failed. Even taxis were not always to be had, and after a Fund Committee meeting at Cutler she started home on foot through the driving snow, determined at all costs to get there in time to prepare dinner. She did, too, with the help of her older son, who met her a few blocks from her Summit Drive home and permitted her to ride the rest of the way on the handlebars of his bicycle.

Among the first of Rochester alumni to arrive in Australia was Fred Newhall, '40, son of Frederick A. Newhall, '11, and grandson of Alfred A. Newhall, '72.

Through devious diplomatic channels comes an unofficial but interesting note, from Harold Shantz, '15, on dietary restrictions in London, where this alumnus is first secretary of the American Embassy. Britishers and Americans having friends on this side of the Atlantic may receive "infrequently" five-pound packages of food—provided it is not solicited. Even an enthusiastic letter of thanks for a package may be held up by the British censors, on the ground that it may be interpreted as a hint for another parcel.

One Virginian in London waited eagerly for weeks for his sister to send him a promised sugar-cured ham, the matchless flavor of which she had enthusiastically described in a series of letters. The ham arrived; but it weighed nine pounds instead of five, and so it was given to the Red Cross instead of being delivered to the homesick and ham-hungry Virginian.

Fire power, decisive factor in military victories, is important in basketball campaigns too, the records of the 1941-42 court season show. Rochester won fifteen straight games for its first undefeated season in history because Lou Alexander's forces were not obliged to depend upon one or two sharpshooting aces; the team was a five-man scoring unit, and when the Varsity had the ball the defending team was obliged to watch every man on the floor.

Naturally Jim Beall, Pete Kelly, and Captain Glenn Quaint, the Varsity's "sixty-minute men," led in the scoring, with 159, 126, and 113 points respectively. Bob Erickson, who missed the Hamilton game entirely because of illness, and who won a permanent place on the starting five comparatively late in the season, amassed the respectable total of 98 points. Bob will probably be remembered as one of the greatest Rochester "pressure players" of all time. He was at his best when the opposition was toughest, and he shares with Glenn Quaint an uncanny ability to snatch the ball from the fingers of the enemy.

Dick Baldwin, midget of the squad, played only part of the season with the first-stringers. He won his spurs in the Vermont game with his six perfect set shots, and piled up an impressive 72 points for the season.

Dick Baroody, another sixty-minute player and a sophomore, has 66 points to his credit. Dick is a passing wizard, but he can drop them in when points are needed. Jim Baynes, another sophomore, played comparatively little, and his 39 points, garnered on a part-time basis, promise trouble for Varsity foes in 1942-43. Tuck Faulkner has been acting as understudy to the capable Pete Kelly, and he too has made infrequent showings on the floor; but his showing during the past two seasons indicate that he will be an outstanding candidate for the pivot position next year.

One of the interested spectators at the Victory Dinner, held at Todd Union on March 9th to honor the basketball and swimming squads and coaches, was Johnnie Murphy, famed ace of the famed Centrals, and colorful basketball coach at the University during the 1920's. Johnnie, like Lou Alexander, turned out some highly successful teams.

There is a legend that Johnnie, for two years in succession, offered to deck all members of his quintet in raccoon coats if they defeated Syracuse. The boys tried but they failed, by a narrow margin, to win the coveted garments.

Rufe Hedges, '26, tells of a Yale game at which the referee, for some reason, kept referring to the Varsity as "Syracuse." Johnnie Murphy endured it as long as he could, then strode out on the floor and confronted the referee.

"We may be just as good as Syracuse, and maybe better," he shouted, "but would you mind calling my team 'Rochester?'"

Season for season, basketball, the country over, draws more spectators than football. Further, there's something about the court game that calls forth the most fantastic devotion on the part of its players. Lou Alexander has been fortunate in getting a good share of these basketball fanatics on his teams. Jim Beall and Dick Baroody, for example, are fire-breathing basketball fans. Al Sisson, radio sports commentator, says that during the season he found the pair of sophomore aces underfoot every time he went to a game. Sunday nights they went down to Edgerton Arena to see the Seagrams; they haunted high-school courts, watching schoolboy quintets with absorbed interest. Glenn Lord, 1940-41 captain, used to spend the Summer vacation practicing his famed one-handed, left-handed shots. Pete Kelly, center on the current Varsity, had three operations on his legs while he was a freshman, and spent two years in rigorous calisthenics preparing himself for the 1941-42 season. Naturally, this devotion pays off, in points scored and victories won.

Alumni in the news: Walter Winchell reports that George Abbott, '11, is going to sell the motion picture rights of his highly successful "Best Foot Forward" for $100,000.

Dr. Herbert C. (Jack) Soule, '16, addressing the staff of Rochester General Hospital on April 1st, urged more care for premature babies, pointing out that Isaac Newton, Charles Darwin, Rousseau, and Voltaire were all born prematurely.

Robert Ripley recently noted in his "Believe It or Not" column that one of the executives of the U. S. Industrial Alcohol Company has the appropriate name of Backus. He referred to Arthur A. Backus, '13.

Dr. Irvine McHose, who teaches piano at the Eastman School of Music, is an expert on miniature railroads, and the floor of his attic is meshed with a complex system of tracks. He likes nothing better than to operate the controls that keep three or four trains in motion, meanwhile maintaining vigilance over switches, grade crossings, and track intersections. Sometimes, as a great favor, he will let a friend manipulate the controls. Once—just once—he conferred this honor upon Director Howard Hanson.

Dr. Hanson was fascinated, and for a time manipulated the switchboard with virtuoso skill, producing a symphony of whirring motors and clacking trucks, while Dr. McHose looked on with proud approval. Then it happened—a head-on collision. Dr. McHose frantically tried to take over, but Dr. Hanson pushed him away.

"I love train wrecks—this is more fun than I've had in years," he shouted happily. "Irvine, why haven't you told me about this before?"

The horrified piano professor was forced to look on, helpless, while his gleeful superior went on to more and better wrecks, until the attic floor was strewn with overturned cars and locomotives. The actual damage was slight, for the McHose rolling stock is sturdily built; but the dyed-in-the-wool miniature railroad fan regards a wreck with aversion. Tradition demands that he scorn the easy and obvious salvage method of picking up by hand the wrecked apparatus and putting it back on the track. Miniature wrecking equipment must be used, with cranes, grapples, winches, and the like. It may take many evenings to clean up a collision, and after several hours it's not fun.

The McHose system of transportation is working again. But its owner, now, is keeping a watchful eye on Howard Hanson and other saboteurs when they approach his attic.

Alumnae Night at Kaleidoscope found the audience clustered around a booth in the lobby of Cutler Union where income taxes and term papers (any style duplicated) were prepared while the guests attended "Red, White and Hullabaloo." One alumna engaged in a rather involved argument with the zoo attendant, who maintained that pets must be left in the lobby during the show. The alumna won, however, and accompanied her husband to the auditorium.

A thirty-eight inch program, printed on both sides, and looking very much like an overgrown ticker tape, announced the events for the evening. Two hermits in search of peace wandered into the morgue, then underneath the sea, into a spinsters' home, a travel bureau, the Red Ridge Mountains, and finally the Statue of Liberty. There they encountered a representative from their draft board and were enlisted in the army.

During their travels the hermits heard eighteen very superior songs, the music and lyrics of which were written by the undergraduates. A chorus of skeleton dancers from the morgue were received most enthusiastically as they danced in total blackness with ultra-violet lights bringing out only the outline of bones that had been painted on their costumes in luminescent paint. The South Sea dance which featured Vivienne Manary, native of Hawaii, was splendidly done and proved to be the highlight of the dancing routines.

The production was in every way the most hilarious and successful ever staged. Most typical alumnae comment was: "My, my! How times have changed since we staged our class skits."
